Working 1920's

Vauxhall advertisement in The Motor Owner in 1920.

AS a town carriage, owing to its imposing appearance, smoothness of running and flexible power, the 25 h.p. Vauxhall leaves nothing to be desired. It is worthy of note also that the closed bodies supplied by the Company are not only of tasteful design and of the best workmanship, but are always of light weight for their type, whereby fuel and tyre economy is secured.

FURTHER, the tractability which distinguishes the Vauxhall as a car that does not fatigue its driver, is as strong a recommendation considered from the point of view of those who employ chauffeurs as it is from the point of view of the owner driver.

Our catalogue giving full particulars will be sent on application.
